DERMATOPATHOLOGIST
THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN HEALTH SYSTEM

The Department of Pathology at the University of Michigan Health System is seeking an academic dermatopathologist. An active subspecialized dermatopathology service under the direction of Drs. Lori Lowe and Doug Fullen provides care for patients at the University of Michigan Health System, accessioning approximately 25,000 cases annually, including an active extramural consultation and referral practice that offers a unique and challenging case mix. Active multidisciplinary programs, including a Destination Program in Skin Cancer/Melanoma, ensure a supportive environment with numerous opportunities for collaboration. The successful candidate will support the academic activities of the department, including opportunities to participate in well established translational research programs. The candidate will also participate in education of medical students, residents and fellows. Postgraduate programs include a dermatopathology fellowship that has filled in each of the last four years with highly competitive candidates. Excellent diagnostic skills and board certification in either Anatomic Pathology or Dermatology and Dermatopathology are required. Preference will be given to candidates with demonstrated communication and clinical skills, and a track record of academic accomplishment including peer reviewed publications and abstract presentations at national and/or international meetings. Appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor (clinical track) depending on the candidate’s level of experience.

Interested candidates should submit curriculum vitae, and the names and addresses of five individuals who can provide letters of recommendation to:
